Neighbours help Cole Harbour residents escape house fire

Good Samaritans.

Shaken residents pound on doors, windows

RUTH DAVENPORT
ruth.davenport@metronews.ca

Three Cole Harbour residents have a lucky stroke of timing and two brave neighbours to thank for escaping a major house fire unharmed.

Jillian Shipley said she saw smoke rising from the deck of a neighbour's home just before 10 a.m. Thursday, and alerted her mother.

"People around here, none of us neighbours are ever home at this time, and we were all home," said the shaken woman as firefighters doused hotspots in the ruins of the house at 114 Maplewood Drive.

As she watched flames consume the home's back deck, Jillian called 911 while her mother, Janet, and another neighbour headed for the house.

There were three people inside the house, all of whom were asleep at the time the fire broke out.

Shipley and John Robicheau said they didn't know whether anyone was home, but they didn't leave anything to chance.

"It was either somebody comes to the door, or I'm coming through it," said Robicheau. "So I just banged on the window and beside the door, and I was just about to try my shoulder into the door and I saw somebody coming down the hallway, so thank God I didn't have to try that."

The three young residents — two men and a woman — politely declined to speak about their ordeal, but Jillian said she'd been told at least one of them awoke to find the flames already in her room.

"While we don't want anyone to put themselves in harm's way ... obviously, that's a job well done, saving people from potential and serious harm," said Halifax executive fire officer Phil McNulty.

Although parts of the home's façade and garage looked intact, the roof was destroyed and the interior com-

Divisional chief Dave Meldrum said at the scene that firefighters were forced to mostly fight the fire from the outside of the house after the roof was compromised.

Fire investigators spent most of the day at the scene, but hadn't determined a cause by 5 p.m.

"They have not completed their investigation yet," said McNulty, adding there are no indications the fire is suspicious.

Halifax woman. Missing-persons case turned over to major crime unit

Police say the missing-persons case of a Halifax woman has been turned over to its major crime unit.

Earlier this month, Tantalion RCMP say they received a report about the missing 34-year-old woman, Reita Louise Jordan, who was last seen on March 19 by friends in Halifax. She hasn't been seen or heard from since.

On Thursday, RCMP spokesman Cpl. Scott MacRae confirmed that HRM's integrated major crime unit is now looking into the file. MacRae said the case is still being treated as a missing person, however.

"We have a lot of questions still unanswered," MacRae said.

"We don't want to speculate. Everybody wants to locate Ms. Jordan, but without a lot of questions being answered, major crime is going to take the file on."

MacRae said an area of concern is that Jordan hasn't been active on any forms of social media since she went missing.

She is described as five-foot-six, 123 pounds, with medium-length dark hair. She usually wears hoop earrings and has a heart-shaped tattoo on her left bicep and chest, and a tribal tattoo on her ankle.

Anyone with information on her whereabouts is asked to contact Halifax police or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477. PHILIP CROUCHER/METRO

Single-vehicle accident. Serious crash sends motorcyclist to hospital

A 56-year-old man was airlifted to hospital with what were believed to be life-threatening injuries after an accident on Highway 102 on Thursday afternoon.

The single-vehicle accident happened near Exit 4C just after 3 p.m. and involved a motorcycle.

Police say the motorcyclist left the highway and ended

Playoff fever picks up steam in Moose Country

Hockey town. First two games of Round 3 closing in on sellouts

CLARK JANG

halifax@metronews.ca

The Halifax Mooseheads are a very hot ticket these days.

Fans started lining up at the crack of dawn Thursday to snap up tickets for the upcoming series against the Rouyn-Noranda Huskies.

"They're the hottest ticket in town," says J.P. Martin of Halifax, who lined up at 8 a.m. inside the Halifax Metro Centre box office. "I just want to get seven tickets together."

More than 100 people were lined up at the Metro Centre box office for the 10 a.m. sale time.

"A guy at the front says he was here at 5 a.m.," says Craig Fleming of Halifax, who was looking for five lower-bowl tickets. "That's a little too early for me."

Dreary-eyed or not, fans were confident this would not be their last chance to buy Mooseheads tickets during the playoffs.

Fan turnout

9,701

The average home attendance for the Halifax Mooseheads through the first two rounds.

"We're all hoping for a sweep, but I don't think it's going to happen," says Phyllis Williams of East Lawrencetown, in reference to the series against Rouyn-Noranda. "The other team has had a pretty decent series."

After sweeping their first two playoff rounds, the Herd kick off its semifinal series against Rouyn-Noranda with Games 1 and 2 on Saturday and Sunday at the Metro Centre at 7 p.m.

As of late Thursday, the Mooseheads say there are "very few" tickets remaining for Saturday's game, and just under 800 for Sunday.

Crowds have been growing throughout the playoffs for Halifax. In its first-round series against the Saint John Sea Dogs, Halifax averaged 9,335 fans. Against the Gatineau Olympiques in Round 2, the average crowd at the Metro Centre was 10,068.

Teachers accept three-year agreement with wage bumps

Nova Scotia's 9,500 public school teachers have accepted a new three-year agreement with the province.

Members of the Nova Scotia Teachers Union ratified the Province proposes tax referendum

Hot topic. Government wants a referendum on HST, opposition says it's not needed

HALEY RYAN

haley.ryan@metronews.ca

The government would like to see a referendum held before the provincial portion of the HST could be added back into essentials like home energy, but both opposition parties say it's a non-issue.

Finance Minister Maureen MacDonald proposed the changes to the Financial Measures Act on Thursday in Province House, which would also make budget measures into law.

"We're very pleased with the fact the first thing our government did was to take the HST off electricity and home energy, and we believe that to change those exemptions Nova Scotians should have a say,"

Quoted

"Nova Scotians have said that they want these items to be exempted from HST, they've been very vocal about that."

Finance Minister Maureen MacDonald

MacDonald said to reporters.

If passed, the act would ensure anyone trying to impose the tax hike to energy, children's diapers, feminine hygiene products, first-time home purchases, or a few other things would have to go to the public.

Progressive Conservative Leader Jamie Baillie said while he supports rebates it would be best if the province went one step further and provided referendums on any future increase to the HST.

"Only then would Nova Scotia taxpayers feel protected from political parties that promise one thing before the election, and then do the opposite," he said. "Clearly the government is scrambling because they have no credibility on tax promises again."

Liberal Leader Stephen McNeil said he has no idea why the government would choose to protect these items through a referendum.

"It's irrelevant to me. We're not talking about adding HST to any of those items, we've been talking about the issues that matter to Nova Scotians, like high power rates," McNeil said.

He added if the referendum was so important to the government, they should have proposed it in the first financial budget act.

"What they did was all about politics, nothing more," McNeil said. "It's funny, they want (Nova Scotians) to have a say on issues that no one's talking about."

Police fear posters may spark vigilantism

Rehtaeh Parsons case. Girl's family call posters 'disrespectful'

The RCMP say they're concerned posters that have appeared on Halifax streets in support of four boys accused of sexually assaulting Rehtaeh Parsons could incite vigilante behaviour against the teens.

The posters urge people to support the boys, though it does not identify them.

RCMP Cpl. Scott MacRae said Thursday the posters don't break any laws but police have received several complaints.

He also said a Facebook page created in support of the four boys was recently taken down after the Mounties raised concerns that the identities of the boys could be made public.

Family speaks out

"I was outraged to think that people would be so callous, they would not respect a family who is grieving right now."

Angella Parsons, Rehtaeh's cousin

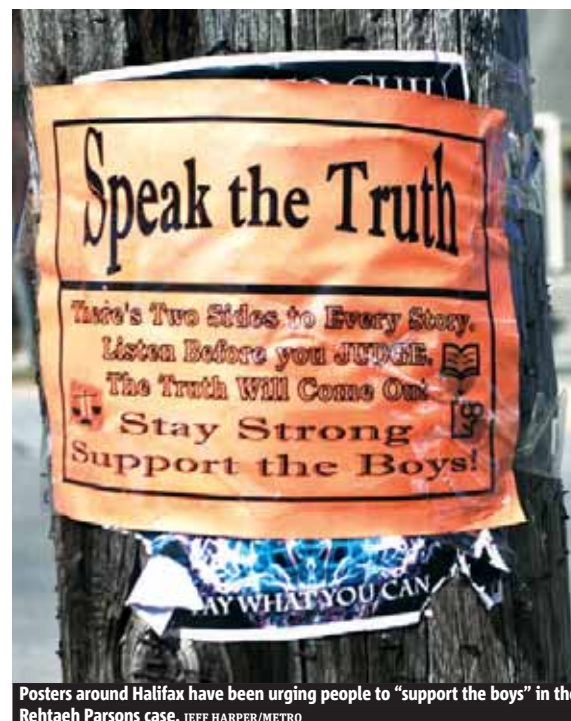

Rehtaeh's cousin, Angella

Parsons, said she believes posters that were put on display near the family's home amount to harassment.

Hundreds of people took to a Facebook page dedicated to Rehtaeh to express their anger.

"I will walk my neighbourhood tonight and if I see any posters they will be removed!!!" wrote one. "I encourage everyone else to do the same."

HRSB. Experts brought in to review how board handled Parsons case

The province says two Canadian experts have begun the review process into how the Halifax Regional School Board handled the events leading up to Rehtaeh Parsons' death.

On Thursday, the province announced Debra Pepler and Penny Milton of Ontario will begin the review immediately and will report their findings to minister Marilyn More.

"We need to take a close and sensitive look at the programs, supports and policies we have in place now and figure out how to improve them," More said in a press release.

Pepler is a professor of psychology at York University and has been on the Ontario Minister of Education's Safe Schools Action Team since 2004.

Milton is former CEO of the Canadian Education Association and a former deputy minister of the Premier's Advisory Council on Health, Wellbeing and Social Justice in Ontario.

Milton said a plan hasn't been developed yet but that she is coming to Halifax "fairly soon" to meet with the board as well as the IWK and Capital Health.

"It is such an important

case, and sad as it is, it provides an opportunity for looking again at how we provide support," Milton said by phone Thursday.

She added she feels a real commitment to helping teens because they're a "really important group."

"The world for young people today is a complex place," Milton said.

"Their lives are both enriched but also sometimes made more difficult by the access to modern ... technologies and the social behaviour that goes with it."

The panel has until June 14 to examine current policies and determine whether they were followed. An interim report is expected May 10.

'Historic'. Halifax, CBRM mayors meet ... finally

It was billed as a "historic meeting" between the two largest urban regions in the province — the first meeting between the mayor of Halifax and his poor cousin, the Cape Breton Regional Municipality (CBRM), since municipal amalgamation in 1995.

CBRM Mayor Cecil Clarke and HRM Mayor Mike Savage have kept in regular contact, discussing issues of interest to both municipalities.

While the Halifax Regional Municipality struggles to manage its exponential growth, the CBRM is fighting to stabilize a declining population, a growing double-digit unemployment rate and a flat tax base.

"We want to be a part of an economic state, not a welfare state," Clarke said during Thursday's special CBRM council meeting, which invited Savage and his chief administrative officer Richard Butts.

The CBRM has taken steps in an attempt to improve its fiscal situation by reaching out to the province to support its five-year, $300-million capital infrastructure plan.

Without it, there will be no road paving, sidewalk repairs or replacement of water mains, some of which are more than 100 years old, in this construction year.

Tories say second report questions value of Muskrat Falls project

Nova Scotia's opposition parties are continuing their assault on the NDP government's support of the Muskrat Falls hydroelectric project.

On Thursday, the Progressive Conservatives highlighted a report done for the Nova Scotia Utility and Review Board, which they say demonstrates the sub-sea Maritime Link to Newfoundland is not the lowest-cost option.

Party leader Jamie Baillie says the latest report is evidence the review board needs to be given the time to do a full review of the project, while setting its own terms of reference.

On Wednesday, both the government and the Opposition Liberals tabled opposing consultants reports for and against the project.

Premier Darrell Dexter says he's not concerned by yet another report questioning the value of the project.

IWK Health Centre lands big bucks from bank

$250K. Donation for new pre-operative area

CLARK JANG

halifax@metronews.ca

The IWK Health Centre is eyeing some much needed upgrades thanks to six-figure donation.

CIBC announced on Thursday they are giving $250,000 to the IWK's Women's and Newborn Health Program. The money will go towards a new perioperative centre, which includes the pre-operating area, operating rooms and recovery area.

Michelle LeDrew, director of Women's and Newborn Health, says a new perioperative centre will focus on providing minimally invasive procedures.

"That really allows women to have a better recovery time and get back to work and to their families quicker," she said.

Tracy Dryden, manager of women's breast health ambulatory and perioperative, says the new centre will give the hospital more space to han-

"We have fabulous staff. We do wonderful things. We've outgrown our space and we need new equipment," she said.

Last year the IWK treated more than 24,000 women in its ambulatory and breast health clinics.

"What we hope to do is make our space more comfortable," said Dryden.

LeDrew says the IWK doesn't have a target date for a revamped perioperative centre yet. They still need to secure more funding.

"Any redevelopment in a health-care centre costs quite a bit of money," LeDrew said. "This donation will certainly go towards it, but we still have a ways to go before we break ground and start our renovations."

Former human rights boss a 'tyrant': Report

Shirish Chotalia.
Former head of the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal 'belittled and insulted' staff: Integrity Commissioner

When an earthquake rattled the nation's capital in 2010, the then-head of the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal ordered her frightened staff to stay inside their shaking building so they could attend a ceremony she had organized for herself, a withering new report says.

Brushing aside the concerns of her employees during the earthquake is among the more egregious allegations of

"gross mismanagement" levelled against Shirish Chotalia in a report released Thursday by the public-sector integrity commissioner. Mario Dion's two-year investigation concluded that Chotalia's behaviour toward some employees and members of the tribunal constituted harassment and abuse of authority.

The report casts Chotalia as a tyrant who belittled and insulted her staff to the point of tears. She spied on her staff and kept a secret file on one employee, the report said, even though that person had never been told of any problems.

Her aggressive interrogations of some staff caused "severe anxiety."

World fish supply

Some depleted fish stocks may never bounce back: Study

The recovery of over-exploited fish populations such as cod has been slower than expected and many depleted stocks may never be able to bounce back, a new study says.

The study, to be published Friday in the journal Science, was compiled by researchers who examined 153 fish and invertebrate stocks from around the world.

Most fish species are resilient enough to recover within a decade if swift action is taken to reduce pressure on depleted stocks, the researchers say.

"But when you don't take action rapidly ... not only does it result in a much longer potential recovery time, but the uncertainty as to whether recovery will happen at all increases exponentially," said Jeff Hutchings, a professor of biology at Dalhousie University and one of the authors. He said that may explain why cod hasn't bounced back.

Trudeau. New Liberal leader inaccurately attacked by PQ in Quebec

Justin Trudeau made his first visit to meet Quebec politicians on Thursday and it was Trudeau 1, Parti Québécois 0 at the end of the day.

The PQ couldn't wait to confront its latest nemesis, the first-born son of old foe Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

But its attack Thursday turned out to be a real clunker. A provincial PQ cabinet minister Jean-Francois Lisee, delivered a lengthy denunciation at a news conference where he accused Trudeau of behaving like some "young prince" because, he alleged, Trudeau had "demanded" to meet the leaders of all parties at the same time.

However, it turns out that information was wrong. People from various quarters, including the Quebec premier's office, disputed the basis for the attack. "It was a communication error. And that error was transmitted to Mr. Lisee and Mr. Lisee 'scrummed' on bad information," said a spokesman for Quebec's PQ Premier Pauline Marois.

"The request was to meet the three leaders — but individually."

'This town is hurt really bad'

Fertilizer plant explosion. West, Texas, tends to its wounds as investigators await clearance to enter the blast zone

Rescuers searched the smoking remnants in West, Texas, Thursday for survivors of a thunderous fertilizer-plant explosion, gingerly checking smashed houses and apartments for anyone still trapped in debris or bodies of the dead.

Initial reports put the number of fatalities as high as 15, but later in the day, authorities backed away from any estimate and refused to elaborate. More than 160 people were hurt.

A breathtaking band of destruction extended for blocks around the West Fertilizer Co. in the small community. The blast shook the ground with the strength of a small earthquake and

Terrifying account

Erick Perez was playing basketball at a nearby school when the fire started. He and his friends thought nothing of it at first, but about a half-hour later, the smoke changed colour. The blast threw him, his nephew and others to the ground and showered the area with hot embers, shrapnel and debris.

levelled dozens of homes, an apartment complex, a school and a nursing home. Its dull boom could be heard dozens of kilometres away from the town about 32 kilometres north of Waco.

Waco police Sgt. William Patrick Swanton described ongoing search-and-rescue efforts as "tedious and time-consuming," noting that crews had to shore up much of the wreckage before going in.

Searchers "have not gotten to the point of no return where they don't think that there's anybody still alive," Swanton said. He did not know how many people had been rescued.

There was no indication the blast, which sent up a mushroom-shaped plume of smoke and left behind a crater, was anything other than an industrial accident, he said.

The Wednesday-night explosion rained burning embers and debris down on terrified residents. The landscape was wrapped in acrid smoke and strewn with the shattered remains of buildings, furniture and personal belongings.

FBI releases images of 2 suspects in Boston Marathon bombings

Warning. 'We consider them to be armed and extremely dangerous,' says FBI agent

The FBI released photos and video of two suspects in the deadly Boston Marathon bombings and asked for the public's help in identifying the men. The agency's website crashed within moments Thursday.

Lung recipient helping launch fund for patients

Lung transplant recipient Hélène Campbell is trying to raise awareness of a fund that helps patients with the costs of waiting for a donor.

"Basically there are a lot of out-of-pocket costs for transplant patients," she said. She hopes to raise enough for 30 families in the first two months.

The Transplant Patient and Family Support Fund launches on April 22.

'Krrrpow,' 'krr-cchsshhh.' Engineer aims to raise $250,000 for giant robot

Mechanical engineer Jonathan Tippet is building a five-metre-tall electric-powered walking machine, and is trying to raise $250,000 in cash and parts in order to complete it by 2014.

"Your body has four limbs, so I wanted to make a four-limbed machine that could be controlled with one of each of your limbs," said Tippet, who has been working on the project for the past six years.

"You'll just extend your legs and this 3,000-kilogram machine will just go 'krrrpow' up to two storeys tall, and then you throw your arms forward and these 500-kilogram steel legs will just go 'krr-cchsshhh' when you hit the ground," he said.

Anorexic teens sought by modelling agencies

At their most vulnerable. Girls as young as 14 approached outside eating-disorder clinic, doctors say

SEBASTIAN CHAABAN

Metro World News in Stockholm

Modelling agencies have been trying to recruit Sweden's next top catwalk talent at the country's largest eating-disorder clinic in Stockholm, its doctors have claimed.

"We find this absolutely reprehensible. They (talent scouts) have been standing outside our clinic and trying to pick up our girls because they know that they are skinny," Anna-Maria af Sandeberg, chief doctor at the Stockholm Center for Eating Disorders, told Metro recently.

"It absolutely sends the wrong signals when what the girls need is treatment," she added.

The last incident took place a year ago, when the clinic was forced to stop its arrangements for patients going outside on walks.

"The scouts have been courting severely ill girls aged 14 and 15," Christina Lillman-Ringbor, care

Angelica Karlsson, former patient at Stockholm Centre for Eating Disorders, says she was offered modelling jobs while she was sick. Karlsson weighed 44 pounds less than she does today when she was approached by a model scout. URBAN BRÄDHE/METRO IN SWEDEN co-ordinator at the clinic, said.

Some patients have a body mass index as low as 14. For adults, an ideal range is between 18.5 and 24.9 BMI, which is a measurement of a person's height-to-weight ratio.

The Stockholm Centre for Eating Disorders caters to any given time to 1,700 patients, with a focus on "bringing starvation and binge-eating and vomiting under control."

Angelica's Story

Striving for 'the ideal'

Angelica Karlsson was outside the clinic when a man approached, asking, "Do you want to become a model?"

Karlsson's anorexia put her life in danger. "I was severely undernourished ...

doctors told me that I would be committed to care if I didn't drink the nutritional drinks they gave me," she told Metro.

But she saw it as a confirmation. "I was flattered and thought that I finally was starting to reach the ideal I was striving for." JENNY SKÖLD/METRO WORLD NEWS IN STOCKHOLM

Icelandic app helps relatives avoid hookups

All in the family. When users 'bump' phones, an alarm sounds if they've got too much in common

Have we met somewhere?

"It's not a good feeling when you realize that girl is a second cousin."

Einar Magnusson, a graphic designer in Iceland's capital, Reykjavik

You meet someone, there's chemistry, and then come the introductory questions: What's your name? Come here often? Are you my cousin?

In Iceland, a country with a population of 320,000 where most everyone is distantly related, inadvertently kissing cousins is a real risk.

A new smartphone app is on hand to help Icelanders avoid accidental incest. The app lets users "bump" phones, and emits a warning alarm if they are closely related. "Bump the app before you bump in bed," says the catchy slogan.

Some are hailing it as a welcome solution to a very Icelandic form of social embarrassment. "Everyone has heard the story of going to a family event and running into a girl you hooked up with some time ago," said Einar Magnusson, a graphic designer in Iceland's capital, Reykjavik. "It's not a good feeling when you realize that girl is a second cousin. People may think it's funny, but (the app) is a necessity."

The Islendiga-App — App of Icelanders — is an idea that may only be possible in Iceland, where most of the population shares descent from a group of ninth-century Viking settlers, and where an online database holds genealogical details of almost the entire population.

Arnar Freyr Adalsteinsson, one of the developers, said the app allows any two Icelanders to see how closely related they are simply by touching phones. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Food bugs: Report shows campylobacter is on the rise

U.S. health officials are seeing more food poisonings caused by a bacteria commonly linked to raw milk and poultry. A study released Thursday by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said campylobacter cases grew by 14 per cent over the last five years. The report was based on foodborne infections in 10 states, and found that overall, food poisonings held fairly steady in recent years. There were no significant jumps in cases from most other food bugs, including salmonella — shown above in a petri dish — and E. coli. But campylobacter rose, and last year accounted for more than a third of food-poisoning illnesses in those states and about one-tenth of the deaths.

Shops bullish on cupcakes despite U.S. downturn

Anything but half-baked. Canadian goods still go down a treat

JESSICA SMITH
Metro in Toronto

Don't worry, the great cupcake crash of 2013 hasn't hit Canada. Prominent bakers say our cupcake industry is better structured than its U.S. counterpart and will withstand the "cupcake crisis" going on south of the border.

"Forget gold, the gourmet-cupcake market is crashing," The Wall Street Journal (WSJ) declared Wednesday, in an article that chronicled the rise and fall of the Crumbs Bake Shop Inc. stock price.

At the peak of the U.S. cupcake boom in mid-2011, Crumbs traded at $13 a share, the journal reported. With 67 cupcake shops, Crumbs locations have nearly doubled in the last two years. As of Wednesday, it was $1.70 after a precipitous drop of 34 per cent on Friday, in the wake of Crumbs' announcement of falling sales.

The analysts weighed in. The problems are not confined to Crumbs, but reflect sector-wide decline.

"The novelty has worn off," Kevin Burke, managing partner of investment banking firm Trinity Capital LLC, told WSJ.

"It's a short-term trend and we're starting to see a real saturation," Darren Tristano, executive vice-president at Technomic Inc., a Chicago research and consulting firm that specializes in the food industry, told WSJ. "Demand is flat. And quite frankly, people can bake cupcakes."

Taking a fresh approach

"You have to ask yourself, do you want to become the McDonald's of cupcakes? Our philosophy is freshly baked on-site cupcakes."

Verge Manuel, Dlish owner

None of that fazes cupcake baker and owner of Toronto's Dlish shop, Verge Manuel.

"I think the U.S. market is different than what you see in Canada," he said. "They're suffering from over-saturation — chain upon chain, selling franchises to anyone who can put up the money."

Business is booming for Dlish, which recently opened up a second location in Toronto's tony Yorkville neighbourhood, to complement its Queen West flagship cupcake shop. Manuel plans to open up a third location by the end of 2013.

Despite getting many offers from people wanting to buy a Dlish franchise, Manuel has resisted that fast money to keep quality high by making sure any Dlish cupcake shop remains under his control.

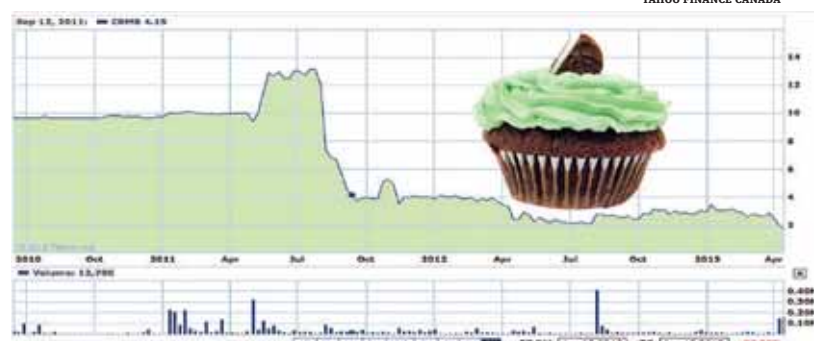

"You have to ask yourself, do you want to become the McDonald's of cupcakes?" he said. "Our philosophy is freshly baked on-site cupcakes."

While Crumbs is seeking to expand to suburban malls, Canadian gourmet cupcake shops have been generally confined to upscale and gentrifying neighbourhoods, so the idea that cupcakes in general will go down-market when chains expand into malls is a real concern, he said.

Jean Blacklock, owner of Prairie Girl Bakery, is planning to open her third shop this week. She already has a store in Toronto's First Canadian Place and said malls are now attracting high-end retailers, and gourmet cupcakes belong there.

Blacklock is very familiar with Crumbs and believes the company's stock price is only a reflection of the expenses related to its expansion — not a comment on the cupcake industry as a whole.

"I don't think cupcakes ever were a trend," she said. "They're individual-sized cakes with icing that kids love because they get to pick their own and adults like because they can choose their preferred flavour and size. The combination of cake and icing has been around for decades and will be around for decades to come."

Putting the icing on Crumbs

Financial help and faith for shaky Crumbs Bake Shop Inc. has come from Canada. WSJ reported that the company signed a term sheet to sell $10 million in convertible promissory notes to a company controlled by the family of Michael Serruya, a Canadian and the co-founder of Yogen Fruz.

RE: Ontario Experts To Begin Halifax School Board Review Into Rehtaeh Parsons Case, published April 18

As a 40-year-old woman, having marginally lived through a similar circumstance as Rehtaeh Parsons, I feel compelled to comment.

When funding is cut in programs such as violence prevention and education, this is the result.

Females are not being educated on how to protect, defend, and care for themselves. Males are not being educated about respect, relationships, and sexual health.

As a youth, I was raped, I was drunk and I was a virgin. I can speak for many friends who experienced their first sexual encounter the same way, most of my friends in fact. The same problem existed over 20 years ago and is clearly still very prevalent.

The education should come from home, community, and from school. We need to tell our girls that they are at risk when they drink. We need to tell them that their peers will take advantage of them, mock them, ostracize them, and, yes, even rape them. We need to teach them to stand up to what is ahead and that even their friends will hurt, crush, humiliate, and even rape them.

I think we need to teach boys more about consent, responsibility, respect, and healthy sexual relationships. They need to be informed that a conversation should come before sex. They need to know that women live years in shame and guilt when they rape them.

Synopsis

Tom Cruise plays Jack Harper, a security and drone maintenance man on planet Earth 60 years after a war with the alien Scavs destroyed all life on the planet. Nearing the end of his mission, he and girlfriend Victoria (Andrea Riseborough) are due to return to home base, now located in outer space. Thing is, Jack doesn't want to leave. He has memory jolts, shards of recollections of the life he led before the war and he wants to stay and explore them. When he discovers a survivor, Julia (Olga Kurylenko), he begins to question everything about his existence. Liz Brown sits in for Mark Breslin.

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Olga Kurylenko and Tom Cruise star in Oblivion. HANDOUT

Just another pretty film

Oblivion. Tom Cruise's new post-apocalyptic thriller is all style with very little substance

Richard: Liz, this is one stylish movie. Every frame could be clipped and hung on the wall to garner oohs and ahhs from your house guests. Everything about it looks great. Morgan Freeman even wears a jaunty cape. But, I'm afraid the style took precedence over the substance. There is much to like here, but for me the story starts to go slightly out of orbit in the last hour and never quite becomes earthbound again.

What did you think?

Liz: Richard, I agree. The sights from Jack and Vika's fabulous tower in the sky ... the sweeping aerial scenes ... and don't get me started on Jack's secret mountain hide-away where he listens to Zeppelin on vinyl — the stunning visuals made me crave life in a post-apocalyptic world. The wild tale was fun, until it turned into a renegade Armageddon. I don't know if Joseph Kosinski ran out of ideas as he wrote, but the last half feels a bit hastily cobbled together.

RC: It does. I won't give away any spoilers from the last half because the plot thickens near the end, but it still manages to be kind of standard. Of course there is a scene of Cruise out-running a giant fireball, and does everyone in post-apocalyptic worlds listen to classic rock? But, having said that, I liked a lot of this. This is the kind of movie Tom Cruise was born to star in, the sort of thing that made him a superstar. What did you think of co-star Olga Kurylenko?

LB: Olga's Bond Girl cred makes her the perfect counterpoint to Cruise's action hero swagger — his comfort in these types of roles is palpable and you can just sit back and enjoy the ride. After a few flops last year, Tom is back in my good books!

RC: Nobody outruns a fireball quite like Cruise and I thought Riseborough brought a lot of humanity to a character who isn't required to do much. A lot of the heavy lifting is left to Olga's character, and while she's beautiful, I'm afraid she has the range of an emoticon. She does much better work in To the Wonder.

LB: Riseborough was great in her role — though her character's refusal to question the status quo irked me. I like my ladies a little stronger. This is no Minority Report, but it's a fun futuristic adventure fronted by Tom Cruise.

5 best future Earth flicks

ALL PHOTOS CONTRIBUTED

Idiocracy

Idiocracy takes place in a world ruled by advertising and commercialism, where the average IQ has dropped into the low 20s. Private Joe Bauers (Luke Wilson), an average American frozen for 500 years as part of an experiment, is thawed and released into the year 2505. The world has changed, and now he's the smartest man on Earth.

Best future Earth quote: "I'm Secretary of State, brought to you by Carl's Jr."

Americathon

John Ritter and Meatloaf star in Americathon, a 1979 film set 20 years in the future. The U.S. is bankrupt and everyone gets around on bikes and roller skates because there's no gas. To pay off a $400 million debt, the president fills the Statue of Liberty with jellybeans for a "guess how many" contest.

Best future Earth quote: "Everyone all across the country was watching the telethon. From what was left of New York, to the first all-gay state, North Dakota."

WALL-E

In WALL-E, set in the year 2700, Earth is now a dystopian world rendered uninhabitable by wasteful and excessive humans who exited the planet centuries ago. A waste removal robot named WALL-E lives alone, until a search robot named EVE changes his life.

Best future Earth quote: "Too much garbage in your face? There's plenty of space out in space!"

Silent Running

Silent Running is the story of a man (Bruce Dern) who tends all that is left of Earth's plant life in large interplanetary greenhouses. When he is ordered to destroy the foliage and return to Earth, he takes another deadly, but more eco-friendly, path.

Best future Earth quote: "On Earth, everywhere you go, the temperature is 75 degrees. Everything is the same; all the people are exactly the same. Now what kind of life is that?"

Children of Men

Children of Men takes place in 2027 after 20 years of human infertility has left society on the brink of collapse. Clive Owen plays a civil servant who helps a pregnant West African refugee (Clare-Hope Ashitey) escape the chaos and possibly save the world.

Best future Earth quote: "Your baby is the miracle the whole world has been waiting for."

Criminal comedy of errors

Pain & Gain opens next Friday. HANDOUT

Pain & Gain. Director Michael Bay takes a wild true crime tale and turns it into a darkly funny film

LIZ BROWN
liz.brown@metronews.ca

Halfway through his latest film, director Michael Bay deems it necessary to remind the audience that what they're watching is still based on a true story.

The intertitle comes as the story descends into the surreal — Dwayne Johnson grills human hands, Mark Wahlberg hacks up a body in Calvin Klein underwear and Anthony Mackie tangles a chainsaw in human hair as he tries to decapitate a corpse.

Aside from a few creative liberties, everything in Pain & Gain did happen in Miami in the mid-90s, when a couple of bumbling bodybuilders came up with a get-rich quick scheme that involved kidnapping, extortion and eventually murder. The real-life criminals — Daniel Lugo and Noel Doorbal — now sit on Florida's death row.

Bay pulled the story from a three-part crime series by Pete Collins that was published in the Miami New Times in 1999. The series outlines the missteps Lugo and Doorbal took, from trying to return a bloodied chainsaw to Home Depot, to failing to ensure one of their intended victims was actually dead — after they blew him up in a car and then ran him over twice.

It's hard to deny the story is darkly funny, something seemingly pulled from the brain of Quentin Tarantino, with torture scenes in warehouses filled with sex toys.

But the fact that it's been turned into a crime comedy doesn't sit well with some people — including one of the victims, Marc Schiller, who last week told the Huffington Post he was "appalled" at the film.

But Bay was expecting mixed reactions to the movie. "I want people to be conflicted (when they see this film)," he says. "I want to show a lot of grey areas. When you return a chainsaw that you're trying to cut a body up with — with hair in it — to Home Depot, to get a bigger chainsaw, you don't think that's kind of funny? It's not your cookie cutter movie."

It's smart storytelling, according to Johnson, who plays a character that was a composite of two real men who played lesser roles in the crimes. "In the beginning you want to go on the journey with these guys; they're kind of likeable, but at the end, all that gets thrown out the window and you're happy and satisfied that they get punished," he says.

Bay hopes that the movie shows crime from the perspective of the criminal. "(Criminals) sometimes think they're not doing something morally bad, or they think they deserve (what they're stealing). You really go into a criminal's mind (with this movie)."

Kevin Zegers tries out life in The Colony

While filming The Colony, Kevin Zegers forged a friendship with renowned actor Laurence Fishburne over a rather unique common bond.

"He started (in the film industry) when he was really young too, so without being pushy, he was very open to talk about how he dealt with it all," said the one-time child star (now 28) during a recent interview.

"I still hear from him all the time."

Zegers has of course matured from earlier days playing opposite a basketball-dunking dog in 1997's Air Bud. In fact, the young talent is more recognized these days for his acclaimed work in such award-winning films as Transamerica and his stint on TV's Gossip

Girl.

In The Colony however, Zegers has atypically turned to sci-fi action, playing opposite Fishburne in the apocalyptic thriller. Set during a futuristic ice age, Zegers leads an outpost struggling to survive against an onslaught of virus and a maniacal mob.

"That was kind of the draw for me going into it," said Zegers of the uncharacteristic role. "I just finished a six-month period drama thing and I kind of wanted some fun and (to) run around and kick some ass and this thing came. Especially with Laurence and Bill (Paxton) already attached, I thought they had sent it to the wrong person."

Series explores life after prison

Rectify. The Sundance Channel show looks at what happens after you're set free

MICHAEL FREIDSON

Metro World News in London

Thanks to advances in CSI-like technology, more convicts are being released from prison early, exonerated by DNA evidence.

"I'm glad to be free," they usually say, "and start my new life." And then what? How do they ease back into a world that has left them behind?

That's the premise of the new Sundance Channel series Rectify, from a producer of Breaking Bad.

Daniel Holden (Aden Young), convicted of raping and murdering his teenage girlfriend, is freed 19 years later, left in the care of his sister (Abigail Spencer) and worried mom (J. Smith Cameron). Meanwhile, a Senator fights to prove he's guilty. Outside, Daniel is as trapped as in.

The series was shot on location in Georgia — in a real house, among locals. Creator Ray McKinnon was inspired to do for the South what Scorsese did for New York.

"I'm not from New York," says the writer/director, best known as an actor on Deadwood and Sons of Anarchy, "but I knew something about 'Mean Streets' was authentic. And as someone from the South, I wanted to show the third dimension."

Every character — from Holden to his "hick" brother-in-law — is fully developed, far from a Deliverance caricature. "These are complex people."

The new Breaking Bad?

Rectify is from a producer of Breaking Bad, but it's a natural fit on the Sundance Channel — it's languid, with dappled sunlight, long silences and a meditative quality. How will it be received, in an era of cliffhangers, hooks and binge-viewing? "There is a bit of a 'did he do it, did he not do it,' that's an ongoing 'what's gonna happen?' But ultimately, that's not what the show is about. The show is about private lives. And as a viewer, I become very empathic because I really care about everybody," says Spencer. "And it's timely," she adds, mentioning the West Memphis Three case. "People are spending their lives in prison and then getting off because of DNA. So it's foreign and yet it's known." Spencer was a natural fit for the sister Amantha — she grew up partly in the Redneck Riviera of northern Florida.

Aden Young plays Daniel Holden in Rectify. GETTY IMAGES

Jail time

McKinnon has spent some time in prison — "Mostly drinking offenses."

My 20s were ... a self-destructive time. Well, teens too." — but nothing compared to Daniel.

"The time I spent in a jail cell was very short, so it was a completely different experience."

"I just remember — there's something about the idea of having something that restrictive and how that, in a strange way, because of the lack of choices, gives you a lack of freedom that too many choices don't. This show taps into that."

Baby trumps all in Bublé's new world

Fatherhood. The Canadian crooner has a new confidence about himself that comes through clearly on his album To Be Loved

After the spectacular success of his Christmas album — eight times platinum in Canada, thrice in the U.S., a Juno award win for album of the year — Michael Bublé might have felt a certain pressure in trying to create a follow-up, the sleigh bells ringing in his ear turning gradually deafening.

Instead, he says he went into To Be Loved — out Tuesday — feeling more blithely self-assured than he'd ever been in the past, committing to a breezy live-off-the-floor recording strategy and declining to polish away the resultant small blemishes in his production.

He had the most fun he's had recording an album, he says. And the principal reason he was so unfettered? He says that the news that his wife, Argentine model Luisana Lopilato, was expecting their first child made everything else seem a little less pressing.

"I think the whole lack of trying (to top Christmas) came from me finding out I was having a baby — I think when that happened, it made me very brave," Bublé said during a recent chat in Toronto.

"The truth is, really, my

Michael Bublé says his impending fatherhood has already given him a strength and confidence that can be heard on his upcoming new album, To Be Loved. MICHELLE SIU/THE CANADIAN PRESS priorities just flip-flopped, and I went: 'What's important to me? My wife's health. My baby's health. My family. And then this record.' If people love it, that's awesome. If they don't love it? You know what, I've done pretty well.

"Not that I didn't care, because of course I care, but I wasn't insecure."

Bublé, of course, has been provided plenty of reasons for such validation within the industry.

It's clear he's not immune from the influence of naysayers, whether imagined or not — when discussing the Junos, he calls it a "thankless job" because "no matter how good I do, or how funny it is, there will be people that just can't stand me" — but the slights

He's so cool

"I'm doing something that maybe isn't as commercially accessible but is really cool."

Michael Bublé
Talking about the road to success he has taken seem to weigh less on Bublé now than they did at a more diffident stage of his development.

For instance, when asked about the dearth of similar-minded crooners operating on such a large scale, he disagrees and points out that for a long time he felt he was in close competition with other artists intent on cruising down the same lane.

"When I started, I remember looking at (manager) Bruce Allen and saying: 'Bruce, man, we're in trouble here. We've got (Harry) Connick, we've got Jamie Cullum, we've got Matt Dusk, we've got Peter Cincotti — I'm going to get buried here.' He used to say, 'You'll be the last man standing, kid.'"

So why has Bublé succeeded to an extent that others haven't?

"Maybe I'm not following everybody else. I'm not doing the same thing everybody else does. I'm not just writing a song and having the rapper rap a thing over it. I'm doing something that maybe isn't as commercially accessible but is really cool," he said.

It's a bird, it's a plane, it's a big, giant movie

Warm moments.

Man of Steel director promises Superman reboot will have poignancy along with the action scenes everyone is looking for Zack Snyder is hoping his Superman reboot Man of Steel turns out to be not just a blockbuster, but a movie with a capital M.

There are panoramic aerial battles on Krypton, there are touching moments between young Clark Kent and both his biological and adoptive fathers, there are close-ups of a fist pounding into ice, and there is lots and lots of big-budget flying.

"I wanted the movie to be a big movie-going experience, full of action, full of emotion and full of the biggest super hero in the world," Snyder said Tuesday before giving the Las Vegas movie theatre convention CinemaCon a brief glimpse. "I wanted to give to the cinemas of the world a big, giant 'movie' movie."

The film follows in the modern tradition of the naturalistic superhero movies. It takes place in a gritty-looking, colour-drained world of greys, brown and icy blues. All the better to set off that red cape, perhaps.

Warner Bros. appears to be enjoying teasing fans with snippets of the film, which hits theatres at the height of blockbuster season on June 14. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

and Joe Shuster lived just a few blocks apart in the Cleveland neighbourhood that shaped their teenage lives, their dreams and the imagery of the Man of Steel.

In the city's Glenville neighbourhood, still in the throttling grip of the Great Depression, Siegel and Shuster laboured on their creation for years before finally selling Superman to a publisher.

The Man of Steel became a Depression-era bootstrap strategy for the Siegel/Shuster team, according to Brad Ricca, who in his upcoming book Super Boys, says the story of Superman's creation is mostly about their friendship: two boys dreaming of "fame, riches and girls."

"The Depression is all about ... you make your own, you find your own niche and we find that's what they are doing," Ricca said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Word

Lisa Rinna to join RHOBBH?

Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

I don't know if I should feel proud of Lisa Rinna's tenacity in attempting to stay in the public's eye or sad. In any case, it looks like the TV personality is angling for a comeback, this time on Real Housewives of Beverly Hills.

Yes, Rinna is aiming for an injected-lip showdown on the Bravo show, apparently replacing Adrienne Maloof.

"Producers had initially asked Lisa to become a part of the show when it first launched, but she turned it down because she decided to do her own reality show for TV Land," a source told RadarOnline.com. That show, Harry Loves Lisa, wasn't long for this world.

"Lisa might come across as very sweet, but she isn't a pushover," the source says.

Interesting choice, RHOBBH. And good for you, Rinna. I always feel like she's teetering between some form of mainstream television greatness, or appearing on the cover of a Sky Mall magazine. Maybe this is a step in the right direction?

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Jennifer Aniston

No 'how you doin' in Aniston's future

Jennifer Aniston had only one response when she was informed about the rumour circulating online that NBC was bringing Friends back for one extra season: "Did Matthew Perry start that?" she asked Ellen DeGeneres. "Because he's getting some good airtime on this show. I've been watching."

So where did this false bit of info happen? DeGeneres tried to clear things up for Aniston, saying, "It's all over the Internet. There's a big rumour. It started in Oklahoma."

Justin Bieber

Maybe Anne Frank would have been a Belieber?

Maybe Justin Bieber wasn't so off-base with his speculation that Anne Frank would've been a fan of his after all.

Frank's step-sister, Eva Schloss, is coming to the maligned pop star's defense, calling the brouhaha over Bieber's sentiments left in a guest book at the Anne Frank

House "so childish," according to the Telegraph. "She probably would have been a fan. Why not?" Schloss says. "He's a young man and she was a young girl, and she liked film stars and music. They make a lot of fuss about everything that is connected with Anne Frank."

Salmon walks plank to drool-worthy status

Salmon with Orange-Miso Glaze. For added flavour, barbecue this simple dish using cedar planks

ROSE REISMAN
for more, visit rosereisman.com or follow her on twitter @rosereisman

You can either bake this fish or barbecue it on a cedar plank. The planks are available at fish stores, supermarkets or lumberyards.

Presoak them in water for at least 8 hours to prevent burning. You can reuse the planks a couple of times.

Each serving contains 38 grams of protein.

1. Preheat the oven to 425 F. Spray a baking sheet with cooking oil (or have ready a presoaked cedar plank and preheat the barbecue to high).

2. To make the glaze, combine the miso, orange juice, soy sauce, oil, sugar and orange peel in a small bowl.

3. Remove 2 tbsp of the glaze and brush lightly over the salmon. Sprinkle with the sesame seeds.

4. Place the salmon on the prepared baking sheet or cedar plank and bake or grill for 10 minutes per inch of thickness of fish, or until the fish flakes easily when pierced with a fork.

5. Serve with the remaining sauce on the side. Garnish each serving with a sprinkling of green onions and cilantro. ROSE REISMAN'S COMPLETE LIGHT KITCHEN (WHITECAP BOOKS) BY ROSE REISMAN

Ingredients

- 2 tbsp yellow miso
- 1/4 cup orange juice concentrate
- 2 tsp low-sodium soy sauce
- 2 tsp sesame oil
- 5 tsp brown sugar
- 1/2 tsp grated orange peel
- four 4-oz skinless salmon fillets
- 2 tsp sesame seeds
- 3 tbsp diced green onions
- 2 tbsp chopped cilantro

A glass of vodka cake?

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

As a James Bond aficionado, I was more than a bit disappointed that vodka didn't make an official appearance in his blockbuster, Skyfall.

I watched it again the other night, from the comfort of my own couch, and took a tally of the liquor brands that made their way into the flick. Heineken lager, The Macallan single malt scotch and Courvoisier VSOP cognac got plenty of screen time — all purchased no doubt. You'd have to be me to recognize the bottle of Bollinger champagne — its appearance obviously not purchased. But short of Bond sipping a martini, nary a mention of his favourite tippie, vodka.

A vodka martini is a boozy cocktail that can turn off even the worldliest secret agent. That's why producers have been scrambling to flavour their output with just about anything to make them more approachable both with and without mix.

Three Olives Cake ($24.95-$28.98) is a neutral spirit from, coincidentally, England that, well, tastes just like cake. Fundraiser: OBEY

The OBEY Convention is putting the "fun" in "fundraiser." Taking place Saturday, The Khyber will be hosting Slim Twig and U.S. Girls — merely the beginning of a fundraiser weekend for OBEY. Slim Twig was the headliner for OBEY 4 in 2010 who met U.S. Girls during the convention and fell in love. Their amazing convention romance story is enough to draw in the crowds. That, and awesome music.

Falkenham finding rhythm after concussion ordeal

Throughout Ryan Falkenham's difficult recovery the 17-year-old believed he would end up exactly where he is today.

After being knocked out of a Jan. 31 road game with a concussion, it took the versatile Halifax Mooseheads forward more than two months to return to the Halifax Mooseheads lineup.

Even after the infuriating highs and lows that go along with concussion recovery, he knew his time would come.

"I just had a lot of faith," said the Halifax native. "I knew, I hoped, we would have a long run and that's what kept me motivated."

Since rejoining the Mooseheads on April 5, for Game 1 of their second-round series against Gatineau, his game and conditioning have progressed to the point where he feels like his old self again.

In the end, he's grateful for his health and has since put his ugly ordeal behind him.

"I didn't think I'd be out for as long as I was and it was hard watching the guys, especially when the playoffs started," said Falkenham. "But I'm thankful I feel great. I'm mentally fresh and physically fresh, and ready to go."

Rejuvenated Moose eager for Round 3

Wait's over. After week's worth of practices, Herd ready for Huskies

ANDREW RANKIN

andrew.rankin@metronews.ca

Jonathan Drouin is itching for game action.

After another Halifax Mooseheads practice at the Forum on Thursday, exactly a week since the Moose swept away Gatineau, it seemed the Herd's star forward spoke for everyone on the team.

"The break's been good," said Drouin. "We've watched the game clips. I feel good and we're all ready to go."

It wouldn't take a sports psychologist to know that going into their semifinal series against the Rouyn-Noranda Huskies on Saturday, the Herd has a lot more to give than last year's team, which entered Round 3 coming off a remarkable but emotionally draining seven-game series against Quebec.

The Mooseheads clawed their way back from a 0-3 series deficit. But, in doing so, had little left for their next opponent, the Rimouski Oceanic, who dropped Halifax in six games.

"We were exhausted," said Drouin.

Not so this time around. Boasting a healthy lineup, the Mooseheads are rested and hungry as they count-down for Game 1.

"There're a few guys here that have been around for a while and we're all excited to get going," said third-year Mooseheads forward Luca Ciampini.

As impressive as his offensive game has been, notching nine points in eight playoff games, he's as enthusiastic about putting his developing defensive game to the test. He's quick to attribute much of his growth to head coach Dominique Ducharme, who has spent countless hours with the 19-year-old both on the ice and in the video room breaking down game tape.

Now it's go time.

"I feel more confident this year," said Ciampini. "We just want to get the job done."

Isles put another wrench in the Leafs' playoff plans

NHL. Tavares rallies Islanders to 5-3 road win in Toronto

John Tavares had two goals and an assist Thursday as the New York Islanders rallied past the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3.

The Islanders (23-16-5) came into the contest seventh in the Eastern Conference but moved to within two points of fifth-place Toronto (24-15-5) with the victory. New York overcame an early 2-0 deficit to win the first of five straight road games it will play to end the regular season.

But the Islanders have excelled on the road, improving to 13-5-2 away from home. They earned their fifth win in six games as they chase their first Stanley Cup playoffs berth since 2007.

The 22-year-old Tavares, a native of nearby Mississauga, Ont., who played his junior hockey with the Oshawa Generals and London Knights, sent a season-high Air Canada Centre gathering of 19,676 home disappointed while continuing to strengthen his case for consideration as a Hart Trophy candidate.

New York, which took the season series with Toronto 2-1.

Cody Franson, Joffrey Lupul and Dion Phaneuf scored for the Leafs, while Phil Kessel, appearing in his 500th career NHL game, added three assists.

Toronto will have to wait to clinch its first playoff berth since 2004. The Leafs could have ended their post-season drought with a win over the Islanders and a Carolina victory over the Winnipeg Jets, but instead dropped to 13-8-2 at the ACC with a second straight loss.

MLB. Dickey leaves, but Jays still top White Sox

R.A. Dickey pitched six innings of two-hit ball to go along with seven strikeouts Thursday as the Toronto Blue Jays defeated the White Sox 3-1 to earn a series split with Chicago.

Dickey (2-2) gave up two hits while walking one before leaving the game with what the team called a "precaution to neck and back stiffness." It was the second straight quality outing for the knuckleballer after he allowed one run over 6 1/3 innings in a 3-2 win in Kansas City.

Rajai Davis, Edwin Encarnacion and Munenori Kawasaki each had an RBI for Toronto (7-9), which won the opener of the four-game set before dropping the next two.

With two outs in the sixth and leading 3-0, Dickey had trainer George Poulis and manager John Gibbons come to the mound for a talk. He finished the inning by getting White Sox infielder Jeff Keppinger to fly out. Right-hander Esmil Rogers

Arrested development: Gallardo leads Brew Crew with arm and bat

Yovani Gallardo homered and struck out six in his first start since being arrested on a drunken driving charge, and the Milwaukee Brewers beat San Francisco 7-2 Thursday for a three-game sweep.

Gallardo (1-1) was arrested early Tuesday morning. The right-hander allowed five hits, one walk and one earned run in six innings.

Milwaukee took all three games from the World Series champion Giants and won its season-high fourth in a row after a 1-8 skid.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Try to focus on what is good in your world and ignore those issues that annoy you. Believe it or not, the solution to your cash flow dilemma is close at hand — so keep thinking and keep looking.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

As of today, you'll see things in a clearer light, which in turn will give you the confidence to take the kind of risks you may have previously avoided. What have you got to lose?

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

According to the planets, this is the wrong moment to take action but the right moment to sit and ponder life's meaning. Despite what others say, there is no rush to get things done.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Everything will come right in the end. Keep that thought in mind over the next few days and before you know it, your life will be back on track.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Cosmic activity on and around the career angle of your chart means you have the ability to influence important people, the kind who can help make your dreams come true. Make contact and show them what you can do.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

There are so many good influences in the heavens at the moment, so don't waste time on anything trivial. Open your eyes and see the world for what it is: a playground full of possibilities.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You will receive something today that you feel you may not deserve, but that is beside the point. What matters is that other people think you deserve it, and it would simply be bad manners to turn it down.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Do you have a vision of how your life could and should be? What are you doing to turn it into a reality? The time has come to do something with your potential.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

It doesn't matter how you get your message across as long as others are left in no doubt that you mean business. It's OK to be assertive, especially when your ideas are important.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You can create something wonderful over the next few days, something that will leave a positive mark on the world. You can also use your talent for leadership to help others create wonderful things too.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

It seems you are feeling guilty about something you should have done but never got around to. According to the planets, you will get another chance — soon.

Pisces

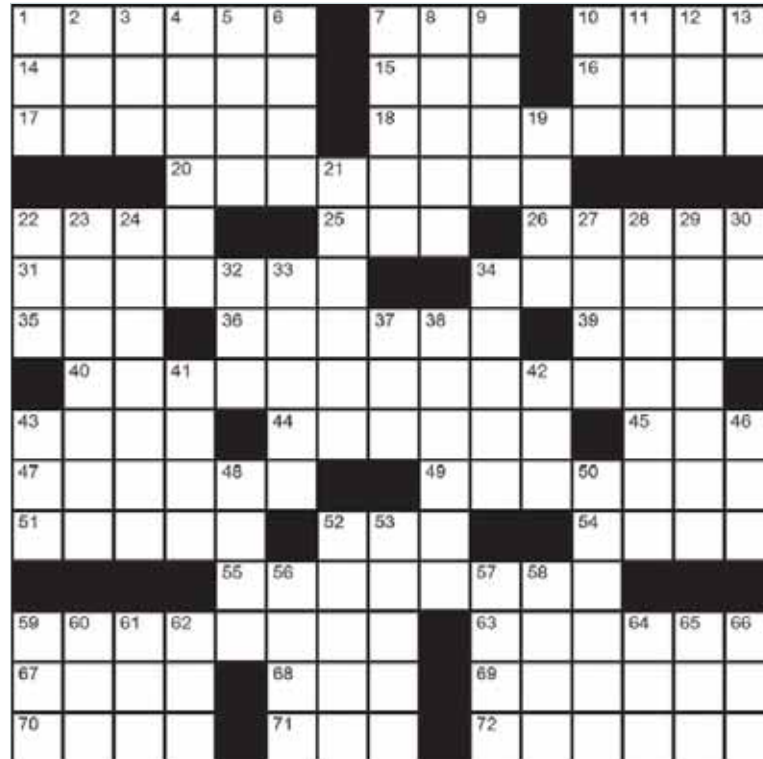

Feb. 20 - March 20

Your mind is on full alert now and some ideas will occur to you over the next few days. Make sure you make a note of them before they fade from memory. And do something with them. SALLY BROMPTON
